

64 BURIED IN
HEROES' GRAVENation's Fitting Honor To the Maine Dead Paid To-day

AT ARLINGTON CEMETERY

Government Business in Washington Was Practically Suspended and Many People Joined in Giving Tribute—
President Taft Present.

Washington, D. C., March 23.—With all the pomp that a mighty nation can pay its heroes of war, the last of the dead of the battleship Maine were laid away to-day in Arlington cemetery. Side by side with the bodies of those brought back from Havana harbor after the war with Spain, sixty-four bodies were consigned to the earth of the Old Dominion state which the nation paid its last measure of honor to the "Unidentified" of that great catastrophe.

Government business here was practically suspended, and President Taft, most of the members of the cabinet, the highest officers of the army, navy and marine corps, officials of departments and representatives of many foreign powers participated in the exercises. Over the government buildings the flags hung at half-mast, while Congress adjourned at noon.

The bodies were carried slowly through the streets from the Birmingham to the cemetery, where three volleys of musketry were fired over the graves.

The navy department has begun distribution to the officers of the ill-fated ship their personal property which was taken from the wreck during the recent operations. These include a variety of articles from swords to tooth brushes and pipes.

Among the officers who are to receive these relics are: Rear Admiral Charles Sigsbee, U. S. N., retired, who was captain of the Maine when she was blown up; Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright, who was the Maine's executive officer; Pay Director Charles M. Ray and Commanders Holden and Brownson.

NO MORE CAPTURES

fered to Surrender and Plead Guilty in Another Court.

Hillsville, Va., March 23.—No further captures were reported this morning by the posse endeavoring to round up the Allen fugitives on the North Carolina border. The arrest of young Sidna Edwards yesterday left four of the wanted men at large. There is much talk over the reported offer of Sidna Allen and nephew to surrender on condition that they be allowed to plead guilty to second degree murder in a court outside of Carroll county.

SIX PEOPLE KILLED
BY ESCAPING GASSeven Others Made Very Ill at Norwalk, Ohio, All Having Slept in the Same Room.

Norwalk, Ohio, March 23.—Six inmates of the Huron county jail here died last night as the result of asphyxiation last night, and seven others, who were overcome, are recovering. It is supposed that a fire in the gas-stove went out as a result of the failure of the gas to flow, and that later the supply came back on. The victims, all of whom were inmates of the men's dormitory, slept in the same room.

NEW MINING MAPS.

Geological Survey Makes Topographic
Surveys of Arizona and Colorado Mining Camps.

Topographic maps of two notable mining camps have just been issued by the United States geological survey. They are the maps of Ray and vicinity, in Pinal county, Arizona, and of Creede and vicinity, in Mineral county, Colorado. The Ray map is the result of a detailed survey of this famous copper camp on the large scale of 1:12,000, or more than 5 inches to the mile. The contour interval is 50 feet. This map shows every topographic feature of the area as well as the location of works of man, including buildings, mine shafts, tunnels, etc., and will serve as a base for any contemplated engineering or geologic work.

The topographic map of Creede and vicinity is published on the scale of 1:24,000, or more than 2 1/2 inches to the mile, with a contour interval of 50 feet. This mining camp is situated in the heart of the Colorado Rockies, the altitudes ranging from 9,000 to 12,000 feet above sea level.

The topographic surveying of the area shown on the Ray map was done by W. M. Beaman and that of Creede and vicinity by R. H. Reinecke, under the direction of R. B. Marshall, chief geographer.

Up to 1911, according to the geological survey, the Ray or Mineral creek mining district had produced little, but from 1911 it will take rank among the most important copper districts of the country. Large ore reserves have been developed and extensive reduction works have been provided at Hayden.

The Creede or Sunnyside district has been an important gold, silver, lead, and zinc camp for a number of years, the annual output averaging between one and two million dollars in value. In 1910 the district produced 62,956 tons of ore, valued at $1,030,286, of which $121,181 was in gold, $417,810 in silver, $3,087 in copper, $202,824 in lead, and $130,784 in zinc. There were nine producing mines in the district in 1910.

The Ray and Creede topographic maps are now for sale by the geological survey at Washington for 5 cents a sheet, or $3 a hundred if at least a hundred are purchased.

RICHESON GAINING WEIGHT

And He Doesn't Seem to Dread the Mention of Execution Week.

Boston, March 23.—Gaining weight consistently, Clarence V. T. Richeson, the former minister, who is in Charles street jail under sentence of death for the murder of Avis Linnell, is in better condition both physically and mentally than at any time during his confinement. He has gained ten pounds in weight. Mention of the date, May 19, the beginning of the week during which he is scheduled to die, does not depress him in the least. These observations were made by John W. McGowan, who until recently acted as cook for Richeson and his colored attendant, Butts.

"It is customary for Richeson to leave the selection of his food to Butts," said McGowan. "At one time the minister did not eat for two days, but of late he has been eating well. On Wednesday and Fridays during Lent he has eaten only eggs, out of regard for Butts, who is a Catholic. Richeson has food especially cooked for him, because he pays for it. Much of the time he and Butts play checkers or walk up and down the room arm in arm in conversation.

"One night not long ago he sat up all night writing, and when I went to ask him about breakfast, he was still writing. He can send sealed letters out of the jail only to his counsel."

The effort to prevent the fulfillment of the sentence of death upon the former minister, which will take the form of a plea for commutation, has the active support at present of Attorney William A. Morse, and of Douglas Richeson of Chicago, brother of the murderer, John L. Lee, the Virginian lawyer, is expected here within a short time to assist in the appeal for clemency. This will be based on insanity, it is understood.

TWO CROWDED CARS
COLLIDED AT FORTVILLE, IND.Two Persons Killed and Thirty Injured
Last Night—Odor of Seared Flesh
From Burning Victims Almost Stifled Rescuers.

Fortville, Ind., March 23.—Two persons were killed and more than 30 injured, many seriously, last night, when two crowded cars on the Indiana Union Traction company's lines collided just west of this place. The cars were running only about 20 miles an hour, but the vestibules of both were jammed, crushing the life out of both motorists. Short circuits of heavily charged wires and overturned heaters, set fire to the wreckage. The least injured were turned rescuers and carried from the burning cars those who were unable to help themselves.

While some gave attention to the safety of the injured men and women, others, stifled with the odor of seared flesh, attempted to reach the bodies of the unfortunate members of the crews.

Soon after the collision 23 persons had been laid on the frozen ground, while waiting for a relief train sent from Anderson. Before the arrival of the relief car, assistance was given by the crew of a Big Four freight train, which was brought to a stop by the flames.

L. E. Watkins of Belfontaine, O., in charge of the freight train, turned his caboose into a hospital car and the injured were taken to Indianapolis.

Officials of the traction line say they cannot account for the accident as it happened on a straight track.

FOSTER FUNERAL PARTY
IS COMING MONDAYHonor Paid Memory of Vermont Representative in Congress by Many People in Washington.

Washington, D. C., March 23.—Official Washington yesterday paid tribute to the private virtues and public worth of David J. Foster, late representative in Congress from the first Vermont district.

President Taft, who numbered Mr. Foster among his close personal friends and advisers, sent a note of condolence to Mrs. Foster and ordered a wreath to be placed upon the bier of the dead congressman.

The Hon. James Bryce, ambassador of Great Britain, also a warm friend, paid high tribute to Mr. Foster's worth and services.

The news of Mr. Foster's unexpected death Thursday night came as a great shock, not only to the members of the Vermont delegation, but to official Washington generally. While it was known that he had been indisposed for some time, none of his friends was aware that he was in imminent danger. Throughout the day, scores of messages of sympathy were received by the family.

After a service of prayer at the family home, 1727 S. street, this city, Sunday, the body will leave Washington in a special car in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. The funeral party will arrive in Burlington shortly after noon Monday, where funeral services will be held in St. Paul's church at 2 o'clock.

The Youngs Representatives yesterday adjourned out of respect to Representative Foster's memory. The resolution of announcement and sympathy was offered by Representative Frank Plumley, Mr. Foster's colleague and warm friend.

The funeral party will include, besides Mrs. Foster, the Misses Mabel, Mathilde, and Mildred Foster, and delegates from both houses of Congress.

Vice-President Sherman yesterday appointed Senators Dillingham and Page of Vermont, Gallinger of New Hampshire, Lodge of Massachusetts, Rayner of Maryland, Burton of Ohio, Jones of Washington, Percy of Mississippi, and Thornton of Louisiana as the committee to represent the Senate.

Harry M. Scott, a St. Johnsbury merchant, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with the clerk of the United States court, giving his liabilities as $13,000.99 and his assets at $4,718.78, of which sum $475 is claimed to be exempt.

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Blast and Was Hit by Falling Rock.

Randolph, March 23.—A serious accident happened at the East Granville talc mine on Friday morning, when John Hancock, a workman, entered the mine and was killed by a falling piece of talc rock. It is said that they had been blasting the mine and Hancock entered the mine too soon after the blast. At noon his body had not been taken out, but, later, word was received by Undertaker W. E. Lamson, to go up with a team for the remains. Mr. Hancock was injured last fall there and sustained a broken shoulder or arm and was here at the sanatorium for treatment. He was a native of Tunbridge, where his mother and several sisters now live. Mr. Hancock was unmarried, and was 29 years of age.

BRAKEMAN MAY DIE
OF RAP ON HEADHe Was Sent Back to Flag a Train and
He Sat Down on Culvert and Went to Sleep, Being Hit by the Next Train.

St. Albans, March 23.—There was brought to the St. Albans hospital to-day a Grand Trunk railroad brakeman who was struck by a train and badly injured, one side of his head being crushed in. The man was working on a freight train, bound from Montreal to this city, and as the train went over a bridge, the brakeman was sent back to flag another train.

He sat down on a culvert near the track and went to sleep. Along came the New England States Limited as he slept and one car, probably the baggage car, struck him. The trainmen saw him sitting by the track, but too late to stop their train before he was hit. They then stopped the train, placed the injured man on board and brought him to this city. The name of the man has not been ascertained.

LOCAL OPTION
IS REJECTEDMaine Democrats Could Not
Muster Two-thirds of the House

ON THE FINAL VOTE TO-DAY

Affirmative Vote was 71 to 64 for the Negative—The Killing of Resolve Was Foreshadowed on a Test Vote
Taken Last Night.

Augusta, Me., March 23.—The proposed amendment to the constitution of Maine to allow local option on the question of permitting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in all cities and such towns as accept the provisions of the resolve was defeated in the legislature to-day. The Democratic majority in the House failed to muster the necessary two-thirds vote in the affirmative on the final passage of the resolve, and it was not carried. The vote stood as follows: Affirmative 71, negative 64.

The defeat of the resolve was fore-shadowed last night, when a vote was taken on the question of passing the resolution to be engrossed. The vote revealed the solidarity of the Republican ranks against submitting the proposed amendment to the people, for every member of the Republican party except Henry P. Clearwater of Hallowell, voted against it, making 59 in all. Seven Democrats were absent on this vote. The Democrats cast 60 votes in favor of passing the resolution to be engrossed. The amendment resolve previously had passed in the Senate by the necessary two-thirds vote.

ANOTHER ENGINE FOR BARRE.

Central Vermont R. R. to Send It Here to Relieve Congestion of Traffic.

After hearing the complaints of the Barre Granite Manufacturers' association that members of the association were seriously handicapped in their business by lack of adequate shifting facilities on the Central Vermont railroad, General Manager Jones of that railroad to-day notified Secretary Wishart of the association by telephone that an extra engine will be sent to Barre and kept here until the present congestion is done away with.

This change will give two shifting engines for the local work, and it is expected that the two will be able to handle the traffic. Heretofore, much of the complaint of poor service has been due to the fact that the single shifting engine had been used to send the passenger train to Williamstown when the regular branch train was running late, thus leaving the granite manufacturers without means for moving stock.

So serious had the situation become that in some of the granite plants it became necessary to send workmen home because it was impossible to get stock moved into the plants. There is quite a rush of business just at the present time because of the anxiety to get work done and set by Memorial day. Many manufacturers presented their complaints to the association's officials, and the latter have been conferring with various Central Vermont officials during the past four days, with the result as announced to-day that an additional engine will be sent to Barre.

BARRE SCHOOL PARTY
WILL MEET TAFTArrangements Made for Chance to Shake
Hands With the President in White House Next Wednesday Night—The Party Left Barre Last Night.

Senior class students of Spaulding high school to the number of twenty-one left last night at 11:45 over the Central Vermont railroad to Washington, D. C. under the chaperonage of Miss Marion Dane of the faculty. Accompanying the students were six other local people, who will also visit the capital city and other points of interest. The sightseers will be absent about a week, returning next Friday night. Splendid accommodations were secured for the trip, and not the least of these was a special coach attached to the Barre branch train. The tourists were thus enabled to occupy the same car from Barre to Springfield, Mass., where another private coach was reserved for the trip to New York.

HACKETT'S PLAY PLEASSED.

Barre Opera House Filled "From Pit to Dome" Last Night.

The stage version of "A Grain of Dust," the last book which David Graham Phillips gave to the literary world before he fell a victim to the assassin's bullet just a year ago, was presented in the Barre opera house last evening to an audience, the size of which easily shattered the record of a season of good houses. Lewis E. Shipman has transformed the book into a play of superior merit, and the company which presented James K. Hackett was received with acclamation.

As an interpreter of sober roles, Mr. Hackett possesses conceded ability and last night he completely justified the eager anticipation which awaited his coming. His appearance in the piece a few moments after the opening of the first act was the signal for an ovation; his way was already won, and the enthusiasm with which the audience followed his acting did not relax. As a character study, the figure of Hackett, the lawyer-amoroso, was of course the leftmost part of the piece. The star of his supremacy never perceptibly dimmed. The playwright has displayed equal skill in drawing his picture of "the girl," and after his conception of Norman perhaps his strongest claim to a knowledge of his art is the quiet little blonde typist, Miss Dorothy Holloway. In the ingenue role was Miss Isotta Jewell, who last season led with Otis Skinner. Her delineation of a difficult character forbids criticism.

Next to the stellar role accepted by Mr. Hackett is E. M. Holland, one of the better known older actors on the American stage. His achievement in the piece was a notable one and almost all of the comedy came from his naive acting. Frazer Coulter as Isaac Burroughs, Frank Burbeck as Edward Lockyer, Vaughan Trevor as Clayton Fitzhugh, Charles Stedman as James Galloway, were a quartet with scarcely less ability. Fred A. Sullivan and Daniel Jarrett, jr., were among the less prominent male members of the company, but their work helped wonderfully in giving balance to the production.

In the lesser feminine roles were Olive Harper Thorne, who so gracefully represented Mrs. Clayton Fitzhugh, Anne Crowe as Josephine Burroughs, and Mabel Inslee, whose accomplishments were quite emphatically brought out in a small character part.

Frederick Norman is a brilliant corporation lawyer, whose success in a professional way is equalled only by his enviable position in society. His engagement to Josephine Burroughs, a society leader and the daughter of Isaac Burroughs, a financial magnate, is rather abruptly terminated when he finds that his little stenographer seems to have a stronger claim on his affections. At this point the remainder of the piece is really revealed. Norman marries the stenographer, the two are presently reduced to straitened circumstances, and the young wife leaves—temporarily. Harassed on every side by Isaac Burroughs, the father of his erstwhile fiancée, Norman at last is offered an opening and he is soon able to welcome the day of reconciliation for Burroughs. Dorothy Holloway, the returning wife, arrives at the climax to interpret for the financier, and the readjustment of home ties is at last reached.

Mr. Hackett and his company of splendid actors were repeatedly forced to respond to curtain calls. The enthusiasm was genuine and no one went away expressing regrets. A part of the house was filled with outpouring of tears, many coming from Montpelier and points along the Wells River. To accommodate these patrons, a number of special cars were waiting after the play and the Green Mountain express was held over for an hour before leaving for Wells River and Boston. It was probably the biggest house since Mildred Holland opened the theatre more than a dozen years ago.

MILNE-RIDDELL.

Marriage at "Baptist Street" in Williamstown Last Evening.

There was a happy gathering of relatives and friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Ridgell of "Baptist street," Williamstown, last evening, the occasion being the marriage of their eldest daughter, Edith Charlotte, to Alexander Milne of Barre City. The bride was given away by her father, and the groom was accompanied by his brother, George Milne, as best man, while Miss Jessie McLean was bridesmaid. The bride carried a bouquet of pink carnations and was dressed in Copenhagen blue satin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. Martin.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous repast. The happy couple will live in this city. Their presents were both numerous and valuable.

The chorus choir of the Baptist church will meet to-morrow morning at 9:45 o'clock.

Misses Avis Keir and Mary Dole left to-day for Medford, Mass., to attend a fraternity dance, held at Tufts college this evening.

BUYS 1-2 MILE
STREET FRONTProperty on Lower Main Street Bought by A. Perry

FROM A. F. WELLS ESTATE

Papers Passed To-day by Which 65
Acres of Land, From North of Sixth
Street to Wells, Lamson & Co.'s Stoneshed, Were Transferred.

Deeds were passed to-day at Supt. F. W. Stanley's office in Montpelier whereby Dan A. Perry of this city, acquires the property on North Main street known as the Camp farm, or Jeff Dodge place. The property contains 65 acres of land, most of it lying in the city, with 25 acres in Barre Town. The property line on the south is at a point just north of Sixth street, and the north boundary line is nearly opposite the former Wells, Lamson & Co.'s granite plant, thus affording the purchaser over 2,500 feet of frontage on North Main street. Included in the purchase is a set of buildings, a house and three barns, located on what is known as the Richardson road, just off the main thoroughfare.

This property has been owned by the late Alvin F. Sortwell and the Sortwell estate since 1888, about the time when the Montpelier & Wells River railroad line was brought into Barre; and it was only after the Montpelier & Wells River railroad was sold to Boston & Maine interests that the property could be acquired.

As to his purposes in the purchase, Mr. Perry stated to-day that he intends to develop the property in the near future, either the coming spring or next fall. The land will be platted, and made ready for prospective home-seekers. The location of the land in close proximity to the big plant of Jones Bros. company, where upwards of three hundred men are employed, and near to other large granite plants, is thought to make the land particularly desirable for building purposes. There are already a few houses in that vicinity, but otherwise it constitutes one of the few favorable sections of the city not built up. The sale of this land following closely the disposal of its railroad holdings, closes out the greater part of the Sortwell estate's property in this vicinity.

A large number of Washington ladies have been holding sewing circles in the homes of some of their members for the purpose of sewing for their own needy poor and for the Barre hospital. From time to time these finished articles were sent to the hospital, until now it has received the following: Twenty-six sheets, 28 large pillow slips, 12 small pillow slips, 24 towels, 5 mattress protectors, 10 small tray cloths, 8 large tray cloths, 1 crocheted dolly, 9 hemstitched screen cloths, 3 hemstitched screen curtains, 14 night shirts, 13 night dresses, 12 table napkins, 4 large pillows, and 5 small pillows. The pillows were given by Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Dickey, Mrs. Patterson, and Miss Lucie Caley.

These articles were all greatly appreciated at the hospital and the spirit which prompted their making in Washington for the hospital work in their neighboring city is an added inspiration to others
